Calabias D. Rosisson, Secretary of State. Per Joan W. Huar, Deputy.

THE RESULT IN THIS DISTRICT. The defeat of Mr. Durker, the Free-Soil candidate for Congress in this District, furnishes the didate for Congress in this District, furnishes the didate for Congress in this District, furnishes the care of ourselves. Measures should be taken to have such legislation as is necessary to allow our city to stlvance its credit to whatever amount The defeat of Mr. DURKER the Free-Soil canvitaperative attack upon Mr. Tweepy and ourselves. The Free Democrat, throughout the cauvass, has been termented with the idea that our especial aim and object was to defeat Mr. Derkee and cheet Mr. WELLS. We have taken some pains to disabase it of this erroneous impression, but i refused to be satisfied and, to the last, persisted in its false belief. And now that the result in the District is ascertained, the Free Democrat charges it to "a coalition" between the Whigs and the The charge is an absurd one, on its face, and possible. There is no time to be lost. The pres-

CHUYZAS knows it to be false. There was no "Comition," nor even the possibility of a "condition," het ween the possibility of a "condition," between the Whigs and the Democrats. That individual Whigs voted and worked for Mr. Writis, is an indoubted fact. We know of individual Free Spilers who did the same thing, as well as of Democrats who supported Dunaxu or Dunker.— In many parts of the District party lines were more or less obliterated in the Congressional cauvass and local, or personal considerations contrailed the vote. This was emphatically the case. in Kenesha, where men of all parties voted on muste for Mr. Dunker. The Free Democral dont discover any "coalition" in that, but only "a glorious vote for Mr. Durkee in his city." Very well; the same interests and influences which worked so "gloriously" for Mr. Dukker there, operated, the to a far less extent, to the advantage of Mr. WELLS here. And that was all the Coalition" there was about it.

But the Free Democrat, not content with this general charge against the Whigs, makes a specitic allegation against Mr. Tween'r and ourselves. We copy its specification:

We copy its specification:

We call the attention of Whigs and Free Soilsers throughout the District to the fact, and the smoof that Mr. Wells was elected by Whig votes: A few, a very few Whigs, voted for Mr. Durkee, but the great body of those who would have voted for Durkee in preference to Mr. Wells, were persuaded by the public and private efforts of Messrs, King, Tweedy & Co., to vote for Mr. Durand, with personal assurances that he should a hard a checking when they were secretly rand, with personal assurances that he stood a chauce of an election, when they were secretly plotting to elect Mr. Wells.

There is neither truth in its "fact," nor warrant for its inferences. Mr. Wells was not elected by Whig votes. He is elected without, and in spite of these. Here are the figures, nearly complete, from four of the five Counties composing the District, which demonstrate what we say :

Congress. Electors. Walk, 9915 3636 521 1929 4039 886 Walk, 939 1582 1186 706 1682 1354 Kacine, 846 1398 776 959 1986 858 Kenodia 441 482 453 139 137 1030 4243 7008 2936 3025 7254 4128

A single glames at the above table shows the gross untruth of the Free Democrat's statement.

Mr. Wells received only 246 votes more than were cast for Mr. Pierce. Mr. Durker received 1192 more than Mr. Here is conclusive and irresistable proof that twice or thrice as many Whigs voted for Mr. Durker as voted for Mr. Durker as voted for Mr. Durker as voted for Mr. Wells would have been elected by two thousand majority, had he not received a single Whig vote in the entire District. So much for the Free Democrat's fakehood, which it invented and published, bothard election, that Mr. Tweedy and ourselves, while publicly working for Mr. Durker, were the fakehood, which it invented and published, bothard election, that Mr. Tweedy and ourselves, while publicly working for Mr. Durker, were Therefore, Resolved. That although this Board. Therefore, Resolved. That although this Board. Therefore, Resolved. That although this Board.

while publicly working for Mr. Dunand, were "secretly plotting to elect Mr. WELLS." We 365 more than their respective Presidential candidates. Of the Whig votes, which Mr. Durant lost Mr. Wells probably received 500, and Mr. Durker 200 or 250. But whatever the proportion no Whig, here, or elsewhere, voted for either Mr. WELLS, or Mr DURKER, by our advice, or procurement. The Free Demo rrat's second "proof" is, that we "rejoiced that Mr. Wells was elected, since Mr. Durand was not." So we did, and do; but that "proves" nothing, save that we think Mr. Wells a better framerat need he at no name to prove that. Weadmit it unhesitatingly. Nevertheless we should have preferred Mr. DURANO to either and, did our best, publicly and privately, to secure his elec-

Lastly, and by way of a clincher, the Free Dem errat points to Mr. Tweedy's election in the First Ward "by democratic votes" as further proof of this " secret plot." Or, as that imaginative paper riguratively expresses it :

Jenny Lind elects Daniel Wells to Congress and the Donnocrate in value and the Democrats, in return, send Jenny to the Legislature. It's a fair largain, &c, &c. There was no "bargain" in the case. That

Mr. Tween't was elected by "Democratic votes" is underlable, and we give the Democrats who voted for him every credit for the good work.-But that Mr. Tweeny, or the whig party, or the editors of the Scalind, agreed, in return, to support Mr. WELLS for Congress, or advised, abetted ountenanced, or connived at any such "plot," "largain," or arrangement; or that they did not honestly and in good faith, in public and private, from first to last, stand by, support and vote for HERRY S. DURAND, the Whig candidate for Representative, is an utter falsehood and whoever asserts it an unscrupulous fabricator. And that

The Wisconsin claims to have "some reason to know" that, before the result was known. we "preferred CHARLES DURKER to DANIEL WELLS," but since the election of the latter, have changed our minds. Out with it, then, neighbors ! If you really have any "reason," for or about anything, pray let the world know it.

The same reliable paper observes that certain politicians are "notorious for knuckling to the atrongest." None who know the Wisconsin will question the truth of the remark. It long ago announced its rule to be, to "fawn upon those who, were up and to trainple on those who were down," and it can justly claim that its practice has invarainly conformed to its precept.

A MONSTER CLIPPER.-There is now building at East Boston a clipper ship, the length of which will be 300 feet, breadth 50 feet, depth of hold 28 feet and which will register 3000 tons. She will are the mere random and reckless assertions of a have four made.

HARBORS. The following vote in the House of Represtatives on the last River and Harbor bill, was long ago placed before the people living around the great lakes, as showing the position of parties upon the question : Yeas, Whigs 68, Loco Focos 31, Free Soil 4 Nays, Whigs 12, Loco Focos 63, Free Soil 0

Now that the die is cast, and that sort of policy which opposes Western Harbor and River Improvenents by government is kept in power, and a President is elected who will of course yeto any bill which the Whigs and better class of democrats may possibly pass, it behaves us to look about us and see what is to be done. Our harbor is in a miserable condition nothing but the very high stage of water having enabled vessels to come in safely during the season, and the fine Schomer Juniatta Patton, which now bids fair to lay her bones on the shore through missing the entrance, is ample proof, were any needed, of the utter unfitness of the present arrangement in its best state.

We have an appropriation of $15,000 towards a new harbor. Of course this is a mere drop in the bucket—hardly sufficient to dredge out the cut from river to lake; but it is probably the last that we shall get. This $15,000 spent what are we to do? Are we to sit still, fold our arms and scold? There is but one course now for us to take. Since government will not do for us is needed for the construction of a substantial structure at the Stanger Cut, thus making a safe and convenient entrance in all kinds of weather At what time the U.S. officer in charge of the work may be expected, here, we do not know but whenever he does come, measures should be ancerted with him by the city authorities for carrying the enterprise forward in such a manner s shall use the fund with the greatest economy, and at the same time with the greatest rapidity The charge is an absord one, on the last, and possible and the pressure are fast going to pieces, and the winds and waves beating upon them between this time and the opening of navigation the next spring will nearly complete their destruction. If the water should retire to a low stage, there would be great difficulty in entering. We hope that this matter will be promptly attended to by our city authorities.

We subjoin a comparative statement of the vote if this City at the three most carnestly contested elections we have had here, to-wit: the Presidential election of 1848, the State election of 1850, and the Presidential election just closed:

RECTION OF 1843. | Ist | 2d | 3d | 4th | 3th | Total vote of the City, ELECTION OF 1951. Total vote of the City, ELECTION OF 1852.

The vote of the City is increased, it will be is due to the new voters made by Declaration of Intentions, and much of it undoubledly was fraudilent. Allowing for this however, the aggregate vote shows a population in our City of some wenty-five thousand.

ion has recently been made by the New York Court of Appeals on one of the many questions growing out of the Anti-Rent troubles. The covenants in the Van Rensseher Leases contain a clause providing that the Landlord shall receive at every sale, one quarter of the proceeds. After dragging through the courts for a long time, one ase has been finally brought to a decision, by the nighest tribunal in the state. We find it announced as follows in the Albany Evening Journal : Court of Appeals, Oct. 25.—John V. L. Ouer-baylingt. John M. Patrie.—In a durable lease, or lease in fee, a clause reserving to the lessor a por-tion of the price or consideration money upon a sale of the premises by the lessee, or his assigns, is void, because repupatant to the grant of the abso-late estate.

Far off is hat how delice and fear. No more submitted to the charge and charge with kind. Hat who know what the coming her with kind. Hat who know what the coming her Veiled in thick darkness brings for use?

Veiled in their darkness brings for net?

Yes, my friends, for us. These wonts are not insprenopriate to the hour and the place. We are a great, a powerful and prosperous people; but there are dangers on our path, and we know not what is hidden in the darkness of the coming hours.—When we shall have discharged the last sail dury to this great statesman and partiot, and had that illustrious head in the grave, who can fail to offer up a fervent supplication that a double portion of his spirit may be upon us! May his influence help to save us from the evils of selfish ambition, of grasping injustice, of headlong fanaticism.—May he continue to infuse into our councils the spirit of wisdom, the spirit or justice, and the spirit of peace.

May be continue to infuse into our councils the spiritof wisdom, the spirit or justice, and the spirit of peace.

What living man is so elequent as death! What living lips can speak like those on which the grave has set its seal of silence! From the book of Job to the newspaper of to-day, the same teachings have been drawn from the dread presence which no customs can make familian. The cold and right frame—the mute tongue—the dim eye—the powerless hand, hare ever given occasion to poets and moralists to discourse on the vanity of human whose and the shadowy nature of human hopes. But the death of the great and good has other lessons than those. While it teaches impressively that that which is mortal must die, it teaches also not less impressively, that that which is immortal shall not taste of death. "I still live," were among the last words of Webster. They are yet true.—His works, his words, his examples, his life, still live. A death like his—so simply, so extendly great—brightened by hope, and faith, and love—dignified with the perfect possession of such shorious powers, is not so much the close of one day as the cawn of another—not so much the putting off of mortality as on putting off of innortality.

When we read of such an euthanasia, we seem to hear a voice from the sky, which says—"Lift up that dejected brow, and the hands which are east down. The death which you lament is but a great event in the life of the soul. It is a clauge and not addissolution. It is the gate to a new sphere, in which the mind, orniched with larger powers, shall enter upon broader fields of action and duty, where nobler struggles shall usek the strength, and more preclous growns reward the victory—where Theresa,-Scott 45, Pierce 155; Congress, Macy 141, Shafter 57; Assembly, Foster, whig 77, Boehn, dem. 123. M. AND M. RAIL ROAD .- The business of this road continues to task its capacity to the ut-most. Indeed the Company, with all their efforts, can hardly build, or buy cars and locomotives fier enough to keep pace with the constantly increasing traffic. The several Depots along the line are all filled with produce, waiting to come to market, while lumber, coal, sait, merchandize &c., of all sorts, is accumulating at the Freight Station in this city faster than the trains can carry it off.

FALSE REPORT.—The Free Democrat of last evening stated that Mr. J. M. CRUMBER, Agent of the M. S. R. R. Line, had been "flogged by a fruit dealer from Cleveland," in consequence of some dispute about a ticket. There is no truth in the story, further than that the said "dealer" undertook to flog Ma Caummer, and "caught a Tartar." The same paper intimates that Mr. Caummer "knows" of certain "frauds" practised by agents of his line. Mr. Chramey denies that he aows anything of the kind.

Alt. Chairman, in the long and honored career of our lamented friend, there are efforts and triumpts, which will hereafter fill one of the brightest species our history. But I greatly err if the closing scene—the hoght of the religious sublime—shoes out, in the judgment of other days, for transcend in interest the brightest exploits of public life. Within that darkened chamber at Marshickid was witnessed a scene, of which we shall not seedly find the parallel. The serenity with which he stood in the presence of the King of Tetrams, without trepidation or flutter, for hours and days of expectation; the thoughtfulness for the pathic business, when the sands were so nearly the out; the beaptimble care for the reception of the friends who came to Marshield; that affectments and salemn leave or parallely taken, name by small salemn leave or for the reception of the remark, of wife, and children and kindred, and framity, down to the humblest members of the household; the designation of the counting day, then near at head, when "all that was mortal of Daniel Webster would cease to exist the feebly marmared words of the Holy West repeated from the lips of the good physician, who, when all the recoveres of human art had been exhausted, had a drop of spiritual bain for the parallel, and the resources of human art had been exhausted, had a drop of spiritual bain for the parallel, and the claspest hunds; the dy-eng paraves; Oh; my fellow citizens, this is a consummation over which tens of pione sympathy will be shed, ages after the glories of the forwer; and the Senate are forgotten.

Dilinessta Halt Regions.

Probably there is not a richer salt region on the face of the earth, than the one in Minnesota. The territory is generally supposed to be valuable for its agricultural resources alone; nothing, however, could be more erropeous. True, its natural agricultural wealth is second to now in the Mississippi valley but its mineral wealth is pot less expansive and valuable.

Among the latter, its salt stands pre-eminent. The region lies between forty seven and forty-nine degrees north latitude, and linety-seven and ninety-nine degrees west longitude.

Among the latter, its salt stands pre-eminent. The region lies between forty seven and forty-nine degrees north latitude, and linety-seven and ninety-nine degrees west longitude. Its exact locality was accertained and defined by an expetion sent out from Fort Snelling, by Major Long, in 1822, '23, the some Maj Long, who afterwards was commander of the expedition across the Rocky Mountains, to explore the Columbia river and Orsegon Territory, known as Long's expedition.' A description of that salt region, together with its locality, will be found in the Topographical Department at Washington.

Our first information of that salt region was from a soldier in the expedition. He says that they had been traveling for several days over a vast rolling plain, with no traces of wador, the troops and borses were almost famishing with thirst, when they came suddenly upon the shore of a beautiful lake about half a mile in diameter, sunk down deep in the plain. It resembles more a vast sink hole. From the height above the waters a vast snow bank appeared to line its shore, but upon examination, it proved to be an encrustation of salt as pure and as white as snow. The waters of the lake were like the strongest brine. So strong was it, that one bathing in it, upon coming out, in a few minutes would be covered with the white crystalization of salt.

If this salt region be as rich as it is supposed to be, a railroad projected into it would prove to be the best stoc sends the following interesting particulars from the house of mourning at Marshfield: the house of mourning at Marshfield:

Mr. Putnara, of your city, arrived this morning with one of Fisk's metalic burial cases, in which the honored remains were placed, and carried from the sick and death chamber down into the library, where they will remain until the funeral. The burial case is of a very neat pattern, covered with black velvet and ornamented—not profusely, however, with silver plated mountings and handles. The inside is lined with white satin, laid in small plaits. A plain though massive silver plate upon the lid, contains the simple inscription, "Danke Wessern". No other word is necessary. The tablet of a nation's memory records his history, and fame will ever proclaim his title to renown.

In booking at the illustrious dead, one cannot avoid a pany at the thought of the sufferings which preceded this significant reposa. The form once so commanding is reduced almost to a skuleton; the arm that was 50 often raised with magical effect to give emphasis and expression to the elecuted and or the subsection.

which preceded this significant repose. The form once so commanding is reduced almost to a skeleton; the arm that was so often raised with magical effect to give emphasis and expression to the eloquent appeal, or withering rebuke, is abrunken to the measure of a child's. But when the eye falls on that majestic forchead, the noble seal which nature set thore leaves no room for doubt, although the suaken eyes give startling promisence to the determined, energotic brain.—In looking directly in the face of the deceased, the raviges of disease are painfully apparent in the sharpened, almost ghastly features. But standing a little on one side, thus viewing the strongly marked profile, one requires all his quickened sensibilities to stiffe the impression that our friend sleeps the sleep of life, and will soon wake again. We are inclined to tread softly on the carpet and speak in whispers leds we interrupt his repose; and if a pin drops we turn involuntarily to see if the unclosing eye gives evidence that the sleeper wakens. But no, alas! the end of life has been with him, and we know his future is in eteralty.

The corpse is arrayed in such habiliments as his compeers of the Senate have often seen him in, when on a bright summer morning he sought the Senate Hall, to pour the words of wisdom and the light of truth upon some topic of surpassing public interest. A blue coat, with plain gilt buttons, yest and pants of spotless white, are substituted for the shroud. A white neckeluth encircles the throat, over which is turned the shirt collar. The feet are encased in siken hose and shoes of patent leather. The hair of the deceased is parted and disposed as in life, and bis white-gloved hands are crossed upon his breast. The hips are slightly plain gilt in the sleep of the deceased is parted and disposed as in life, and beed the lingering imagination, which would reanimate the belpless clay.

It is designed strictly to regard the dying wish of Mr. W garg m in respect to his funeral. It will be chaunted by the see, whose not
